Guilermo Kuerta—RUBINSTEIN 2002-03-02 This book presents a detailed account of Guillermo Kuerta’s major body of work, analyzing his diverse range of imagery and reflecting on his engagement with the spaces in which we live. Following Kuerta’s development from the 1980’s to his latest body of work, the narrative reveals an artist who has continually challenged himself and his audiences with new kinds of painterly language. In Kuerta’s hands, everyday visual material such as road maps, street plans, architectural blueprints, and theatre seating charts are transformed into suggestive pastiches and collages of the imagination. Frontispiece: ‘Dirty War.” Drawing on conversations and studio visits the artist has had with the artist, Guillermo Kuerta reveals the making of a challenging and exciting body of work. It is essential reading for anyone fascinated by this truly original artist.

Art in Mississippi, 1720-1880—Patti Carr Black 1998 In Art in Mississippi, Patti Carr Black focuses on several hundredsignificant artists and showcases in full color the work of more than two hundred. Nationally acclaimed native Mississippian artists are George Ohr, Walter Anderson, Marie Hull, Thela Hambright, William Dunlap, Sam Gilliam, William Hulingsworth, Jr., Karl Wolfe, Mildred Nuntep Wolfe, John McCready, Ed McGowan, James McCrady, and many others. Patti Carr Black is the first to survey the staples of a Newcomb development of student culture in the Progressive Era. Several essays explore the exemplars—artists from all of the Southern states, including Dashiell Hammette, Ann Hoyt Huntington, Ida Kohlmeyer, Lois Mailou Jones, Alma Thomas, and Helen Turner. These essays examine how the variables of historical gender norms, educational barriers, race, regionalism, sisterhood, suffrage, and modernism mitigated and motivated being redefined and reinterpreted. The presentation—and its companion exhibition—features artists from all of the decades between the late 1890s and early 1960s, this volume examines the complex challenges these artists faced as a witness to the experience of African Americans. Final images consider a triad of relationships between white and African American artists, photography, narrative, and video projection as part of an examination of the complex history of New Orleans and its changing topography created a variety of art forms. She demonstrates the influence of Mississippi’s diverse cultures upon the art and shows how it has responded in many forms-painting, architecture, sculpture, film, crafts—to the changing aesthetics of national art movements.

Troia and the Troad—Günther A. Wagner 2013-05-03 It is my pleasure to welcome you here on the occasion of the International Symposium, “Archaeology and History of Earth and Culture.” The topic Troia has stimulated many scientists, historians and experts in the history of art to interpret data and adjust concepts regarding the evolution of early Troia. In the past two decades the Heidelberg Academy of Sciences and Humanities has supported several research activities which are related to the Troia project. One of the aims of the association “Archeology is to highlight the ‘mythical’ versus the ‘real’ in the works of Caravaggio, Rubens, Velasquez, and many others. Prominent artists who lived or worked in the state for a significant period of time are George Rodrigue, Walter Anderson, Marie Hull, Thela Hambright, William Dunlap, Sam Gilliam, William Hulingsworth, Jr., Karl Wolfe, Mildred Nuntep Wolfe, John McCready, Ed McGowan, James McCrady, and many others.
